Montreal, Canada - Making its official launch in Las Vegas at SuperZoo Expo June 26-28, the Doggy Bathroom is the only indoor potty solution for male dogs who lift their leg.

Created by Canadian designer, Alain Courchesne with the help of his 2-year-old Italian Greyhound, @Sterling514 the pair came up with a solution that not only solves the problem of males dogs who lift their leg but also creates independence between parents and their fur babies. Although the Doggy Bathroom was designed with males in mind, female doggies can call the Doggy Bathroom their own too.

The Doggy Bathroom will be unveiled for the first time on June 26 at SuperZoo. It is a smart and stylish solution for small dogs (16lb. or less) to lift their leg and/or eliminate solid waste. This product is designed to be indoors, but can also be placed outdoors in a covered area. The Doggy Bathroom can be used as potty training devise, as a seasonal solution for small breeds who cannot withstand the cold winters, or as a permanent solution for senior dogs who can't make it outside in time.

"We're excited to unveil the Doggy Bathroom in the New Product Showcase at SuperZoo. SuperZoo was the obvious choice to launch the Doggy Bathroom due to its overwhelming capacity to attract the best of the best." Alain Courchesne, Creator
